DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

2. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Codilian'577. See summary of the invention, column 3, lines 21-35, column 4, lines 21-34 and claims. Please note that claim does not require the kick amplitude to be included. Also, please note that Codilian'577 clearly states that data can be manipulated for each disk portion (see column 4, lines 28-31).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Simozato'534 in view of Codilian'577.

The applied Simozato'534 discloses the hard disk drive substantially as claimed. See column 2, lines 1-55, column 5, lines 5-55, column 6, lines 34-67, column 8, lines 5-28, column 12, lines 1-24. The elements disclosed in Simozato'534 include: disk including plural disk portions, element for writing data on disk, controller for write current.

The applied Simozato'534 does not specifically states that write current may be established for each individual disk portions. However, the applied Codilian'577 reference teaches that such practice is common in the art (see the above rejection). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to use teachings of Codilian'577 and modify Simozato'534 so each disk portion of Simozato'534 is effected accordingly.

Also, it would have been obvious to control kick amplitude together with write current to improve signal-to-noise ratio. Please note that manipulating write current and kick amplitude is known to be routine in the art. Regarding desired range of signal-to-noise ratio, Codilian'577 teaches that it is desired to optimize such ratio. It would have been obvious to manipulate write current and kick amplitude to obtain proper value. Also, It would have been obvious to apply the hard disk drive as claimed in chip and logic elements.

The arguments and amendments currently and previously presented by applicants have been fully considered. The rejections based on 35 USC 102 Simozato'534 have been withdrawn. Applicants have mainly argued that the prior art does not teach that the write current may be changed for individual disk portions. The arguments have not been found persuasive in view of the new grounds of rejections wherein applicant's concerns are addressed.
